His (A Dark Erotic Romance Novel)

Synopsis

I never meant to be here: tied up in bed next to a serial killer. When I followed him home, I was just playing Nancy Drew. Trying to find out his secret. His kiss was intoxicating, and I thought he was harmless. I was wrong. Nancy Drew never ended up in a basement, handcuffed to a radiator, teased to the edge of insanity, begging to be let go. Soon, I stopped begging to be let go. Soon, I started begging to be HIS. Author's Note: This is a dark romance novel with mature themes that might make some readers uncomfortable.

Gav has a secret. He stalks and then captures and kills men who beat and abuse their wives and/or kids. He has a darkness in him. A yearning that calls to him. One that insists he kill and torture the men who do the same. Gav believes the shadow will always be there forcing his hand. Kat lives a quiet life. She's twenty-two and works at the college library. Her friend and co-worker Jules gives her a hard time about being boring and challenges Kat to kiss the next hot man she sees in the library. Gav is at the library following his next victim. He's caught off guard when the pretty girl who works there throws herself at him in the elevator and kisses him. When she asks him out afterwards, he declines explaining he never dates. After successfully capturing his victim, Gav can't shake the feeling that he's forgotten something. He makes a return visit to the library, where without him knowing it, Kat follows him home. He then catches Kat watching him through a window as he's stabbing his victim. He takes Kat prisoner advising her that he'll never let her leave. Both of these characters have abusive pasts and have lived their last few years mostly alone. When they're together however, they seem to find a type of comfort in the other person. The darkness stays away from Gav when he's with Kat. His need to kill isn't there, or at least it isn't as strong. Kat feels alive when she's near Gav, no matter how hard she tries to fight her body's reaction to him. She wants him even if she feels guilty about wanting a killer. Overall, the book was good enough. It kept my attention and I wanted to know what would happen in the end. It's a standalone told from both POVs and has a happy ending.

Do you like it? If you do, dig in! Kat is a shy girl, working on a library, while trying to finish her studies. One day, trying to prove her best-friend wrong, she kisses a man she has never seen before in an elevator. Her daring of moment, may prove more reckless than she has ever dreamed about. "This wasn't what I'd signed up for. Nancy Drew had walked into the last chapter of a Stephen King novel, and she was getting the hell out of there." "I wanted a hero who would push me to the edge of insanity, a man who would make me feel." Gav is a rich guy that seems harmless enough. In fact, he looks like prince charming, but looks can be deceiving. Gav is definitely nobody's hero. "Sometimes the world makes itself just right. The wind blows a certain way. People walk with puppet strings attached to their limbs, and I feel like the puppet master." "A character in a book might live forever, as long as there was someone there to read him and remember him." His is a fast-paced thriller, with multi-dimensional characters that made this book into an amazing emotional roller-coaster. Both main characters, are complicated, deep and twisted. Each with their own issues and each finding what they were not looking for. Ms. Dark is a great storyteller. She has created a very cohesive plot, with a few sub-plots and several twists along the way.
